Willdan Introduces New, Unified Brand

ANAHEIM, Calif., Apr 17, 2008 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- Willdan Group, Inc. ("Willdan") (NASDAQ:WLDN), a leading provider of outsourced services to public agencies, today announced that it is blending the identities of its operating divisions into a single, unified brand.

"We are unifying the Willdan brand because we now operate as one company," stated Willdan CEO Tom Brisbin. "This significant change enables us to more effectively recognize and capitalize on the collaboration opportunities among our three business segments: engineering, public finance and homeland security. Acting together as one team makes us more effective in marketing our diversified services, and most importantly, in serving our clients."

Willdan has dedicated itself to providing public agencies with reliable engineering and consulting services for more than 40 years. Originally started as a civil engineering firm, the company evolved into a professional services firm offering a broad array of solutions through its subsidiary companies: MuniFinancial, Arroyo Geotechnical and American Homeland Solutions. The new brand unites these companies under the Willdan banner, returning the company to the single name with which it was founded in 1964.
